abstract

OBJECTIVE: To review the effects, adverse consequences, and extent of energy drink consumption among children, adolescents, and young adults.

METHODS: We searched PubMed and Google using "energy drink," "sports drink," "guarana," "caffeine," "taurine," "ADHD," "diabetes," "children," "adolescents," "insulin," "eating disorders," and "poison control center" to identify articles related to energy drinks. Manufacturer Web sites were reviewed for product information.

RESULTS: According to self-report surveys, energy drinks are consumed by 30% to 50% of adolescents and young adults. Frequently containing high and unregulated amounts of caffeine, these drinks have been reported in association with serious adverse effects, especially in children, adolescents, and young adults with seizures, diabetes, cardiac abnormalities, or mood and behavioral disorders or those who take certain medications. Of the 5448 US caffeine overdoses reported in 2007, 46% occurred in those younger than 19 years. Several countries and states have debated or restricted energy drink sales and advertising.

COHCLUSIONS: Energy drinks have no therapeutic benefit, and many ingredients are understudied and not regulated. The known and unknown pharmacology of agents included in such drinks, combined with reports of toxicity, raises concern for potentially serious adverse effects in association with energy drink use. In the short-term, pediatricians need to be aware of the possible effects of energy drinks in vulnerable populations and screen for consumption to educate families. Long-term research should aim to understand the effects in at-risk populations. Toxicity surveillance should be improved, and regulations of energy drink sales and consumption should be based on appropriate research. Pediatrics 2011;127:511–528

CONCLUSIONS

On the basis of this review, we conclude that (1) energy drinks have no therapeutic benefit, and both the known and unknown pharmacology of various ingredients, combined with reports of toxicity, suggest that these drinks may put some children at risk for serious adverse health effects<sup>11,16,2425,18</sup>: (2) typically, energy drinks contain high levels of caffeine, taurine, and guarana, which have stimulant properties and cardiac and hematologic activity,<sup>3,8,11</sup> but manufacturers claim that energy drinks are nutritional supplements, which shields them from the caffeine limits imposed on sodas and the safety testing and labeling required of pharmaceuticals<sup>2811</sup>; (3) other ingredients vary, are understudied, and are not regulated; (4) youth-aimed marketing and risktaking adolescent developmental tendencies combine to increase overdose potential; (5) high consumption is suggested by self-report surveys but is underdocumented in children (deleterious associations with energy drink consumption have been reported globally in case reports and popular media<sup>2,811,25,31,38</sup>); and (6) interactions between compounds, additive and dose-dependent effects, long-term consequences, and dangers associated with risky behavior in children remain to be determined.<sup>5,1,426,38</sup>

About 80% of patients who use tobacco began under 18 years ; The number of teenage smokers is increasing everywhere -Smoking causes 650.000 deaths a year in Europe

-A death in seven is a direct result of tobacco and dependence kills a smoker out of two

-15% of non-smokers (passive smoking) is in danger of being a victim (circulatory system disease, cancer, hair loss, ulcers, infertility, etc.)

A. Peruga, A. Pruss-Ustun (Lancet)

-Each year, worldwide, about 600.000 people die due to the consequence of passive smoking.

-The first victims of passive smoking appear to be children: -Well over 150.000 under 5 years of life.

-The phenomenon is most evident in low and middle income countries
